

You already know you need a mammogram for your breasts.

Now you can have one for your heart.

A GIFT OF CHOCOLATY GOODNESS EVENT

Schedule your mammogram and coronary calcium score (heart scan) on Saturday, February 17th and you'll also receive a delicious chocolaty gift... along with some other great goodies! Dark chocolate has been shown to be good for your heart, because it restores flexibility to arteries and prevents white blood cells from sticking to the walls of blood vessels.

WHERE:

Radiology Associates of Hartford,
Glastonbury
31 Sycamore St., Ste. #102

WHEN:

Saturday, February 17
8am – 2pm

*Mammograms are designed to identify calcifications within the breast that may indicate early cancer. But did you know that the same calcifications within your coronary arteries can be a sign of early heart disease?

The heart scan is another important test that every woman over 45 years of age should consider...especially because unlike men, the symptoms of heart disease can be very vague with women. Because this test is preventive in nature, and because it is the only non-invasive test that can detect the presence of early heart disease, it has been called the "mammogram of the heart" by leading cardiology experts.

*The good news is, you can have a coronary calcium score during the same visit as your mammogram! And if you have your mammogram in February, American Heart Month, you can have your heart scan for just $99.
